The Dedication of the Lateran Basilica

On this solemnity, the word of God recalls an essential truth:
the temple of stones is a symbol of the living church... built by God.

Advent Small Groups

As we begin the holy season of Advent, we invite you to prepare your heart and mind for the Christmas season by joining a 4 week Advent small group where you journey with others to embrace the true meaning of Christmas.

Starting November 30, small groups will gather each week to pray together, reflect on the Sunday readings, and share how God is working in our lives.

Interested in leading a small group or joining a group?

PLEASE CONTACT DEACON JOHN STARMAN WITH ANY QUESTIONS, 402-843-8393

Dear parishioners,

I was asked a question during my Sunday class and online about what we are supposed to be doing while saying the Lord's Prayer during Mass. I'm sure this is because it seems to be one of the few times during Mass when we are not in sync with each other. Some have their palms together in an age-old posture of prayer. Some have their hands up and extended just beyond their shoulders, and some are holding hands with the people next to them. Which one is the correct position? The short answer is the church has specifically decided not to decide. But let me give you a little background on how this happened.

In the late 60s and early 70s, there was a lot of reforming going on following the Second Vatican Council. Some of it was authorized, and some of it was orchestrated by enthusiastic liturgists. Those my age or older would remember that before this time, it was very clear that during the Lord's Prayer, the priest held his hands in the same beyond-the-shoulder posture that he used during most of the prayers he said during Mass. I thought of this as being like a satellite dish collecting signals from the many directions of the people whose prayers he is leading and reflecting them to God. Another image of this would be the reverse of a prism, which takes a beam of white light and refracts it to a rainbow of colors. This would be the different children of God the Father having their prayers brought together through their representative, the priest.

After Vatican II, some liturgists pushed the idea that we all shared in the priesthood of Jesus Christ through our baptism, so everyone should mimic the priest's posture, and everyone started to go toward having their hands out. It was a nice thought to have an emphasis on this point of theology, but some thought that it ruined the idea that it is the ordained priesthood (different than the priesthood of baptism) that was standing in the person of Christ at the Mass and lifting the people's prayers to the Father, just as Christ did when he was lifted up on the cross. But it didn't stop there. Soon, there were liturgists who tried to emphasize that, if God is our Father, we are all brothers and sisters, and the emphasis should be on our family connection. This led to people holding hands. This died down when COVID hit, but it is still a common thing for families. It was soon reflected in the family meal prayer being said while holding hands around the table, instead of folding their hands like most of us did at meals when we were growing up.

Which is correct? One way emphasizes the ordained priesthood. Another emphasizes the shared priesthood of baptism, and the other emphasizes that we are one family since we have one Father in heaven. The Church has decided not to decide which is best. I presume this is because each posture makes a good point. The same non-decision is in effect in terms of receiving communion, which I will write about next week.

God bless you,
Fr. Frank Baumert

THANK YOU

Thank you to everyone who joined us at St. Bonaventure's for coffee and rolls last Sunday and viewed the 66 quilts sewn by our quilters for CHARITIES. They will be sent this week to

1. Child Advocacy Center at Faith Regional — for children of abuse entering foster care
2. Birthright of Norfolk — for babies whose mothers have chosen life
3. Sleep in Heavenly Peace (Cuddles) in Omaha — to cover new beds for children in need of a safe place to sleep
4. Bright Horizons — for survivors of domestic violence
5. Prayer Blankets — for those undergoing chemotherapy treatments

A special thank you and blessing to our dedicated quilters:

Kathy Buelt, JoAnn Mattner, Shirley Voborny, Connie Schindel, and Mary Ann Fangman.

Your time, talent, and compassion bring comfort and hope to so many.
